During the Zero Hour on the first day MLA, A. Pongshi Phom raised the importance of Goods & Services Tax (GST) collection in Nagaland. Phom stated that GST is the backbone of the State’s revenue and a major source of income to the State exchequer.

State GST revenue recorded a remarkable rise with 104% year-on-year growth in June 2025, following a strong growth of 43% in April and 44% in May 2025.

This growth could be attributed to internal reforms, skill development, enhanced enforcement measures and compliance by the business community.

He also suggested some areas in which GST can be introduced in order to boost the State revenue; commercial house rent, sand and stone chips, and unauthorized transporters.

He pointed out that amendment in GST laws is the need of the hour since the laws have not been reviewed after its introduction, and urged the DDOs in government departments to ensure that GSTR-7 (Monthly TDS return) be filed on time before insisting a Tax Clearance Certificate so that contractors and suppliers do not face unnecessary difficulties.

DR. TSEILHOUTUO RHUTSO RAISES RESERVATION POLICY DURING ZERO HOUR

MLA, Dr. Tseilhoutuo Rhutso speaking during the zero hour on the 2nd day of the Seventh Session of the 14th Assembly at NLA Hall, Kohima on 4th September 2025.

MLA, Dr. Tseilhoutuo Rhutso, raised concerns over the State's Reservation policy during Zero Hour on the Second day of the Seventh Session of the 14th NLA on 4th September, 2025. He highlighted that, despite being in place for several decades, many underprivileged and voiceless individuals within both the Advanced Tribes (AT) and Backward Tribes (BT) continue to have limited access to opportunities and resources for social advancement.

He observed that even after 48 years of implementation, the benefits of the Reservation policy have primarily gone to the more advanced and urban elite groups the so-called creamy layer which undermines the very objective of the policy. He therefore urged the government to review the system to ensure that weaker sections from both ATs and BTs are supported and given equitable opportunities.

In this regard, Dr. Rhutso put forward the following suggestions:

1. Introduce two categories: General Category (GC) for the well-off sections of ATs and the creamy layer of BTs, and Reserved Category (RC) for the underprivileged sections of both ATs and BTs, with clear government criteria for classification.
2. Allocate 50% reservation for GC and 50% for RC.
3. Allow applicants to choose between GC or RC; GC applicants would require minimal scrutiny, while RC applicants may be required to sign a declaration bond.

4. Permit ATs and BTs to have further sub-reservation within their respective categories.
5. Ensure that NSSB and NPSC results are declared strictly on merit, but with a 50/50 distribution between GC and RC.
6. For backlog vacancies, if a reserved seat remains unfilled by a particular tribe, it should be offered to the next tribe in line, ensuring qualified candidates are not deprived of timely opportunities and to prevent cases of overage.
7. Each individual should be allowed to avail the Reservation quota only once in their lifetime.
8. No Reservation should be applicable for professional services through NPSC/NSSB if the candidate has already availed the RC quota earlier, such as during admissions for JEE, NEET, or higher technical studies.

In his reply, Chief Minister Dr. Neiphiu Rio acknowledged the importance of reviewing the Reservation policy, noting the need to uphold meritocracy while also empowering the weaker sections. Rio also informed that a committee has already been formed by the state government which is very much receptive to any issues that are brought by the people.
